

Review of: "Sex Ratio, Spawning Cycle, and Size at Maturity of Bluespotted Seabream (Pagrus Caeruleostictus, Val 1987) From the Coast of Ghana"

Robert T. Leaf¹

¹ University of Southern Mississippi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Overall, a very solid contribution. I would have liked to see logistic regression of the length at maturity analysis; it will ease comparison with other published studies.

Recommend a summary table of life-history parameters of the species. How do those derived here compare to those collected by others?

The sex ratio analysis and discussion should focus on gear selectivity.