It could be interesting research. Nevertheless, there are certain matters that require attention.

1. Authors use different abbreviations at different places, which confuses the reader. Please provide the list of the abbreviations used at the start.
2. References in the text are missing.
3. The introduction needs to emphasize the research work with a detailed explanation of the whole process, considering past, present, and future scope. How the present study gives more accurate results than previous studies needs to be strengthened in terms of recent research in this area with possible research gaps. It would be good to give the work done in the last five years, especially some novel studies related to the subject.
4. In the conclusion section, the limitations of this study, suggested improvements to this work, and future directions should be added.
