

Peer Review

Review of: "Channeling the Flow – A Metaphor for Computer Programs"

Stefan Vaclav¹

1. Institute of Production Technologies, Slovak University of Technology in Bratislava, Slovakia

The paper is well-structured. The conclusions are clear and in line with the main text. The manuscript is clearly written and could be interesting for researchers in this field. I do not have reservations about the submitted article, and I recommend publishing it in its current form.

Declarations

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.