

Review of: "The Evolution of Adult Learners' Roles: A Case Study of an English Teacher's Transformative Journey"

Marko Björn¹

¹ Hämeen ammattikorkeakoulu University of Applied Sciences

Potential competing interests: Article review: 1. The article examines exactly what was promised in it. Thus, the results were in line with the objectives. 2. There is no clear research question in the article but defined transformative learning and an example of it. 3. Previous studies have hardly been described. It is partly justified by the researcher's research perspective. 4. The method is quite adaptable to describing transformative narrative, i.e. case-like. 5. The results are presented in a case-type narrative but are not presented separately. 6. There is a reflection section, but the reflection is quite light. In addition, it should include reflection on previous studies. No potential competing interests to declare.

Article review:

1. The article examines exactly what was promised in it. Thus, the results were in line with the objectives.
2. There is no clear research question in the article but defined transformative learning and an example of it.
3. Previous studies have hardly been described. It is partly justified by the researcher's research perspective.
4. The method is quite adaptable to describing transformative narrative, i.e. case-like.
5. The results are presented in a case-type narrative but are not presented separately.
6. There is a reflection section, but the reflection is quite light. In addition, it should include reflection on previous studies.