

Review of: "Inhibition Success of a Virtually Created Molecule: Pseudoeriocitrin and Femtomolar Inhibition"

Júlia Vaz Schultz¹

¹ Franciscan University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is very well-written; the authors clearly articulate the issue they aim to address and approach the subject in a simple and clear manner for reader contextualization. I believe the results are valuable for publication. My suggestion would be to add captions to the 2D map images resulting from the molecular docking methodology.