

Review of: "Russian Military Renaissance: An Unnecessary War"

Oksana Viltsaniuk<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> National Pirogov Memorial Medical University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

In my opinion, the author has highlighted very important and convincing facts of today's geopolitical processes not only in Eastern Europe but also in the World. The information presented in the article is relevant, supported by a sufficient number of modern sources of literature. It should be noted that in his work, the author examines the reasons for Russia's military invasion of Ukraine from different standpoints and tries to answer the questions that have been raised. The author's thoughts are presented consistently and methodically covering all the events taking place in Ukraine today and the possible consequences of these events not only for Russia, but also for the modern world in the future.