

Review of: "Determinants of Women Entrepreneurs' Business Performance: Evidence from Micro and Small-Scale Enterprises in Arba Minch Town, Southern Ethiopia"

Gurusamy Yoganandan<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Periyar University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I was invited to review this paper. The observations / comments are based on the available information. This research makes an interesting attempt to unearth the determinants of women entrepreneurs' business performance. Methodology and style of writing are the strengths of this article. On the other hand the areas that require refinement are the references/citations and discussion section. More references from recent research papers could be added. In the discussion section authors should spell out how this research stands out from the routine research papers, what are the theoretical and societal contributions of this research. By highlighting the uniqueness of this research theme, the authors can convert this research paper into a good research article. My best wishes to the authors .