

Review of: "[Commentary] Potential Mechanisms of Continuity of Care and Future Research"

Husam Almansour¹

¹ University of Hail

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Here's a revised version of your statement:

"This paper is well-written as it effectively highlights the advantages of continuity of care. I would highly recommend this paper for publication. To further enhance the discussion, it would be valuable to include the importance of electronic health records (EHRs) in facilitating continuity of care. EHRs play a crucial role in ensuring seamless information exchange among healthcare providers, which contributes to improved coordination and quality of care. Additionally, it is important to consider the significance of patient autonomy in the continuity of care. Allowing patients the freedom to choose their preferred healthcare providers can enhance their comfort and satisfaction, ultimately promoting a stronger patient-provider relationship and facilitating better health outcomes."