Thank you for giving me the opportunity to go through your research paper. First, I would like to commend the authors for embarking on research on factors that could improve entrepreneurial outputs within academic settings. Nevertheless, I have important suggestions and comments to pass to the authors: The word "mediating variable" in the abstract should be changed to "moderating variable." Additionally, while the research procedures and processes involved seem to be in line with conventional academic standards, I would like to suggest that the quality of the work would be improved significantly if it were made to pass through the services of a proofreader or language specialist.
