This research has an interesting topic with a well-structured explanation. The introduction was declared clearly from background until the research gap. Literature review and hypothesis development were explained well since the authors put deeply content related to each variable, given good hypothesis development, and illustrated with a clearly defined framework.

The methods and measurement were constructed well and clearly. The discussion and findings give us new insight about the big picture concerning the determining factors of student intention in using cloud services.

I hope this future research can be enriched with a cross-country study to provide new findings and see what the different factors that affect student intention in another country. It will bring fruitful discussion for academics and researchers.

Thank you
