

Review of: "Using Taxes to Attract the Creative Class in the Presence of a Region-Specific Rent"

Tong Yang¹

¹ Hiroshima University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This analysis constructed a basic tax competition model between two regions in a representative creative entrepreneur. The conclusions are very clear and intriguing. It would be useful and informative to examine the conclusions with the data of tax rates and entrepreneurs from some different countries or representative regions in the extended models. Definitely, this is just a suggestion for future research.