The aim of the study has been emphasized at each step within the scope of the article, but the method and methodology have not been sufficiently detailed. The article is inadequate in terms of presentation and results. The literature sources examined and included in the article are insufficient and not up-to-date. The experiments conducted in the article should be further detailed, and the content of the tables should be explained within a logical framework. The article, in its current form, is akin to a conference paper.
