The paper presents an interesting and relevant topic. However, it suffers from several drawbacks that need to be corrected before its possible acceptance.

- The abstract needs to be rewritten, especially to clarify the objectives after the background.
- I advise the authors to professionally proofread their manuscript prior to resubmitting.
- The introduction is short and weak.
- The methods chapter is weak and needs more specification of empirical work.
- A literature review section is weak and confusing.
- I believe there are more studies in indexed journals. They must be included.
