

Review of: "Teaching Patterns in Technological Curricula"

Vinayak N Kulkarni<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> KLE Technological University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

"While the paper presents an array of teaching patterns employed within technological curricula to address syllabus requirements, it seems to fall short in terms of contributing novel research insights or conducting in-depth exploration of the subject matter. The teaching patterns delineated by the author appear to be readily accessible through online resources. However, the paper could have garnered more interest and academic value had it incorporated statistical analysis and provided nuanced interpretations of these patterns."