

Review of: "Government interference in election administration and lethal electoral irregularities in Africa: Evidence from Nigeria"

Dinne Chinedu Ernest¹

¹ University of Ibadan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The authors made a good attempt to examine government interference in election administration and lethal electoral irregularities in African: Evidence from Nigeria.

The article has relevance and contributes literature on electoral violence in Nigeria and Africa significantly. The article has originality and high academic soundness. The title is appropriate and was the entire work was well presented and structured. The methodology was well drafted and the abstract is adequate. The result presentation and discussion was well presented. However, there were few typographical errors. Hence the work needs to edited.

Accept for publication after minor correction.

C.E. Dinne PhD

Sociology department (Criminology and Penology Unit)

Faculty of the Social Sciences

University of Ibadan, Ibadan