

Review of: "Acacia Pycnantha Gum Exudates Recognised As a Traditional Food in Two Countries May Have Economic Potential"

Bijay Kumar Singh

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper "Acacia pycnantha gum exudates recognized as a traditional food in two countries, may have economic potential" is an intriguing read regarding Acacia pycnantha gum. With more information on the nutritional value, preparation for human use, and chemical components, it might be more helpful and instructive. If these points were covered in more detail, the post would be more beneficial and educational for anyone who is considering using this gum as an affordable food source.