

Review of: "Professional Learning Communities (PLCs) for English Teachers as an Effective Alternative Framework for Professional Development"

Tesfaye Habtemariam Gezahegn<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Arba Minch University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The manuscript came up with a very interesting topic, that is, Professional Learning Communities (PLCs) for English Teachers as an Effective Alternative Framework for Professional Development. It has provided empirical evidence for opting for PLCs for EFL teachers' professional development. However, conclusions about PLCs as an alternative framework might be difficult taking a single case of Israeli context. Professional development frameworks depends on context and vary from one to the other.