

Review of: "Allergies In India: Myths, Misconceptions, and Awareness"

Wells Utembe

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The introduction is woefully short. The authors have not defined myths and misconceptions and they have not presented findings from other countries as a way of introduction. What are the prevalences of each type of allergies in this group?

The study is lacking a conceptual framework. It would be much better if this study was informed by a health promotion theory such as health belief model etc