

Review of: "Treading the Thin Line Between Health Ethics and Patient Care in the Application of Telemedicine: The Case of Sound Ethical Guidelines in Telemedicine in Sub-Saharan Africa"

Norzaila Mohamad Nor¹

¹ Sultan Abdul Halim Mu'adzam Shah International Islamic University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

For me, this concept paper is well-written and easy to understand. It talks about telemedicine and how ethics is important in healthcare. The language is clear, and it uses recent references, making it a good contribution to the field. The well-structured sub-topics, like the one about telemedicine in Sub-Saharan Africa, and the emphasis on ethical governance, make the paper strong. Overall, it is a good paper offering valuable insights into the intersection of technology, healthcare, and ethics.