Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper is well-structured and clear in its presentation. It effectively introduces the problem, the proposed solution, the methodology, the case study, and the claimed novelty. However, it might benefit from a slightly more detailed explanation of the process and the temporal logic used for verification to improve accessibility for readers unfamiliar with the subject matter. In addition, the authors need to refine all figures and where required redraw the figures, some figures font is that small that the text is not readable. Moreover, the authors need to cite the latest research, most references are quite old.
