This is a very interesting topic and with some improvements would be suitable for publication. I have to admit that based on the abstract, introduction methods, and discussion of the study and its aims were not clear to me. Major points needed to be revised are:

1. the introduction requires considerable revision to be clearly and succinctly articulate the study aims. Additionally, much more contextual information is required - I find it puzzling that very little is provided to the audience on background of problem in terms of Uganda setting. It would be clearer to put figures in the beginning of background so that the importance of this topic can be understandable.
2. Make explanation of social ecological model more succinct, coherence, and cohesive!
3. Discussion ; Regarding correlation with previous studies, make sentences more succinct. When other previous research found same or similar finding, put in the one sentence. Don't put one paper for one sentence such as in the paragraph of correlation of alcohol consumption.
