

Review of: "Paulian Approach to Critical Thinking: Assessing an Intervention Program"

Essa Alibraheim¹

¹ Imam Abdulrahman Bin Faisal University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I commend the researcher for their dedication in delving into the implications of Paul's Model. However, I have reservations about its theoretical framework, research methodology, hypotheses, and data analysis. I recommend that the researcher conduct a thorough review of existing literature to establish a robust theoretical foundation for their research inquiries. The description of the sample/participants is not sufficiently elucidated. Furthermore, I believe that the analysis of qualitative data lacks a professional and scientific approach. It would be beneficial for the authors to provide more specific details on the coding and analysis procedures employed.