

Review of: "Integrated decision-making model to enhance the employee-oriented built environment in urban green buildings"

Nirma Swaris¹

¹ University of Moratuwa

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Congratulations to the authors. This article is well written with extensive literature.

Thoroughly analysed the existing literature with the systematic literature review and bibliographic analysis. Study created a good platform for understanding the employee-oriented built environment in urban green buildings.

More clarifications can be used to emphasize the 'decision making models' related to the built environment.

Further studies could be done with real world case studies to evaluate the hybrid decision-making model to assess the theory.