

Review of: "Challenges in Reducing Maternal Mortality Rate in Pakistan"

Tinatin Manjavidze¹

¹ University of Tromsø

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is well-written and easy to follow, it has nice structure and understandable points for the readers. However, abstract and introduction are not different, abstract should have more points from discussion, also, MMR is maternal mortality ratio and since in the text the formula is explained: N of maternal deaths/ N of livebirths and the reason of having livebirths in denominator is also explained, it makes the MMR ratio and not rate, since the numerator is not included in denominator. I think if the introduction includes aim of the article, that would be great. Conclusion is good, but I think the important part of reducing maternal mortality is to have an understanding which out of the listed problems have more impact on MMR, which should be part of further research.