

Review of: "Low-Carbon Hydrogen Economy Perspective and Net Zero-Energy Transition through Proton Exchange Membrane Electrolysis Cells (PEMECs), Anion Exchange Membranes (AEMs) and Wind for Green Hydrogen Generation"

Ethem Toklu¹

¹ Duzce University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The subject of the paper is very popular, and lots of scientists work on this subject. It is very well studied and includes very useful and up-to-date information. It may help future perspectives.

The paper is quite understandable and may reach a wide readership.