

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Hereditary painful callosities

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base. Hereditary painful callosities. ORPHA:79141

Hereditary painful callosities is a nummular palmoplantar keratoderma characterized by the development of painful keratotic lesions over pressure points in hands and feet. A few families have been described. Transmission is autosomal dominant. Successful analgesia can be obtained with tretinoin.