

Review of: "Determinant of Vaccination Status among Children Under Five years in Mattu Town, Oromia Regional State, Ethiopia"

Padmasani Venkatramanan¹

¹ Sri Ramachandra University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Review of manuscript titled Determinant of Vaccination Status among Children Under Five years in Mattu Town, Oromia Regional State, Ethiopia

Thank you for inviting me to review this paper.

I appreciate the efforts of the authors. However, this paper does not add to the existing knowledge in this field.

In addition, I have the following comments about the manuscript

1. The introduction is long and has too many unnecessary details about studies in other countries
2. The abstract does not describe the study setting, study design, and population.
3. The study methodology does not adequately explain all the steps
4. The sample size is too small for estimating prevalence and the sample size calculation explanation is incomplete.
5. The statistical analysis has not been done correctly and all possible factors have not been included in the questionnaire.
6. The discussion does not explore the issues adequately
7. The use of language and grammar has to be edited professionally