I suggest the Author the following indications:

1. the aim of the article is not clear in terms of "...comparison with SARS, MERS and H1N1". I suggest implementing the differences among the mentioned diseases.
2. No mentions on the laboratory diagnosis: I think that it is very important with regards to the sample collections (which sample, time of collections, conservation, etc.)
3. the references are very old. They have to be up to date.
