

Review of: "Antimicrobial Ayurveda Crops as Superfoods for Export, Conservation & Farmers' Benefit"

Severino Zara¹

¹ University of Sassari

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper describes the possibility of cultivating some plants with the potential to be superfoods, usually found as wild plants.

Abstract

In the abstract, there is this sentence: "Regulation of antibiotic use can be accompanied by herbal drugs such as turmeric, pepper, & clover, etc., that have been found to be effective for millennia with no emergence of resistance reported." This is very interesting, but it is just a postulation, so it is better to change this sentence.

Introduction

Here, there is this sentence that is not clear to me: "Turmeric milk - famous as "latte" across airports and roads, hotels!" It is better to explain.

Methodology

Maybe it is better to indicate the literature you were talking about here.

Discussion

Few more lines in order to discuss this part better should be added.