Firstly, I would like to appreciate the author for his efforts to collect and compare the information in his intended overview, "Retinal Vasculitis Following COVID-19 Infection: A Systematic Review."

However, some points must be taken into consideration from his side for better perception, and these can be summarized as follows:

1. Title should be changed because it's not A Systematic Review
2. Abstract needs more sufficient information, including number, comparing ...etc.
3. Introduction must provide more details; it is too short.
4. Writing language and article organization both require work.
5. Discussion needs more details; it's not clear.
