

Review of: "[Mini Review] Role of Mango in Immune System"

Prerna Gupta¹

¹ Lovely Professional University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Constructively rewrite the abstract. There are many grammatical errors in the abstract, so rewriting is required.

Keywords should be arranged in alphabetical order.

Studies in the introduction part should be quoted in the past tense. In certain places, the cited paper authors' names are required where only numbering is given, so this should be corrected. Supporting in vivo and in vitro case studies wherein mangoes are used for boosting the immune system should be used.

The paper in the present format should not be accepted for publication, as scientific data related to the above-said topic is missing. Moreover, the author has not included any figures nor explained the compounds responsible for boosting the immune system. Metabolic functions with details should be added. As per the title, the paper is not provided with details. It is a simple review paper where data from different papers is extracted without depicting the actual need for writing the present review.