I have read the manuscript with a lot of interest.

I have to congratulate authors for this interesting work that reported 8 Cases of provoked Cushing Syndrome after consuming different herbal compliment. I must commend the authors for this effort.

Besides, some other missing informations should be taken under consideration:

- Authors may give supplementary informations about the definition or the meaning of “Manifest” or “Not Manifest” Cushing Syndrome either in the table or above it.
- In addition, is there any possibility to add supplementary informations about the evolution of patients, how were they treated to overcome the Cushing Syndrome episode?
- Elsewhere, congratulations for this work.
