This article requires very careful attention and revisions in all aspects to get into publication. There are many concerns about not only the language choice and manner, but also the article's contents and discussions. Starting from the title, it is too long, so it is hard to understand. It can be shortened, for example, by dividing into the main title and sub-title. Second, in the abstract, it is difficult to find the objective of the research. The abstract should contain 5W+1H, which is lacking in this article. Third, in the introduction, there is a statement repetition which is exactly the same as the abstract, and this is not necessary. It is hard to understand the storyline of the article. Also, the objective cannot be found in this section.

Moreover, in the theoretical review, the author should be clear on every statement, for example, the law number and regulations. Do they belong to Indonesian law or an international agreement? Also, there is a paragraph repetition which is the same. Some sentences are too long, which drives the readers into confusion. In point 2.2, it is not enough to explain simply by pointing out. The reader needs an explanation. In addition, in the section on Aceh's economy, specifically on factors affecting economic growth and government expenditure, the explanation is too general. There is nearly no information related to Aceh's economy, which factors affect the economic growth of Aceh, and what kind of government expenditure Aceh has. The author needs more literature review on them.

Furthermore, the research method needs more elaboration, such as the informants, which requirements for selecting them, and how the data is analyzed need more clarification. However, the author understands the case just through the online news. This research needs more authentic evidence, which is lacking in this research. It will be more interesting to listen to the voices of the informants.

Therefore, tons of work should be done on this article. The author needs to care about the context of the article so the reader can relate to what the author refers to. Besides, the author should pay attention to the language choices and manner, too, such as explaining the expenditure (price) by converting to USD, etc. Some sentences also contain high subjectivity which should be avoided by a researcher. There are also inconsistencies in the citation manner. In conclusion, the storyline of the article needs to be clearer.
