The manuscript is extremely interesting and addresses a very important issue.

However, I would suggest improving the introduction a little to present the gap and justification for the research, and developing and presenting more important concepts of natural capital, valuation and methods for valuing and estimating natural capital.

Regarding the methodology, if the proposal is to carry out a systematic review, it would be ideal if they had followed a protocol as a prism. And the details should appear in the text. I particularly believe that they should remove this part of the systematic review from the text, and it could even be a separate text.
