

Review of: "A Study for Estimation of Greenhouse Gas Emissions of Cotton in Central Greece"

Ankit Balvanshi¹

¹ National Institute of Technology Goa

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This study contributes significantly to our understanding of the environmental impact of cotton production in Greece. It serves as a valuable resource for stakeholders looking to promote sustainable agriculture and reduce the carbon footprint of cotton farming. Moving forward, concerted efforts are needed to implement the study's recommendations and ensure the long-term sustainability of cotton cultivation in Greece.