The manuscript is well written and represents the major models to predict the risk of COVID-19 mortality with sufficient supporting data. However, it would be better to improve the introduction part with sufficient related literature to the application of models i.e. any reported findings on the fitness of the models, specifically on COVID-19 mortality. Also authors could provide cited data or review on the impact or affect of COVID-19 on life and economy worldwide, they have mentioned but it would be better to represent with some supporting citations.
