Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I have repeatedly studied the manuscript and confronted it with the findings of other authors publishing in the given field, in an attempt to provide the author with ideas for improving the article, but these would only be cosmetic adjustments, with which there is no point in interfering with the author's concept of the work, which in my opinion is stimulating, precise, well targeted and professionally executed. The topic is serious, topical. The conceptual model corresponds to the solved problem, the methodology without comments. Conclusions recapitulate the achieved results with sufficient caution. I do not have serious enough comments for the author to revise the text. Congratulations on the quality and beneficial results.
