The author has done a good job with the topic on public speaking training plan. It is a pertinent issue faced by many students, young and adults both. The work seemed to be an experimental one, but turned out to be a theoretical article. Mentioning the objectives of the article would have made the purpose of the paper clear. The public speaking plan presented in the article should mention the age group for which this plan may be appropriate. The application of Kolb's theory to public speaking plan has been explained adequately.
