

Review of: "The Parental Role in Child Sexuality: A Phenomenological Study"

Jefferson Mwaisaka

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

I appreciate the details provided in this article by the authors, this is an important topic. However, I think the authors need to shorten the article to read like a manuscript and not a dissertation. Specifically, the introduction and the methods sections are too long and need to be revised to reflect the specific contents the authors want to communicate. Also, the abstract talks about qualitative findings (content analysis) but the methods and results sections have a lot of details on quantitative aspects which I think are confusing.