

Review of: "Italian Position Paper (SIPMO-SICMF) on Medication-Related Osteonecrosis of the Jaw (MRONJ)"

Christian Bacci¹

¹ University of Padua

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is a great pleasure for me to carry out this review.

This is a comprehensive and well designed paper.

As the Authors state, there are principally two different diagnostic and staging methods: AAOMS and SIPMO/SICMF.

I absolutely agree that the SIPMO/SICMF staging is rational but applying this method creates difficulties for those who carry out researches and publish internationally.

My suggestion is just to include, in this paper, an official conversion table between the two stagings.

I am aware that similar tables are present in the literature, but not within an official document.