

Review of: "Understanding Creativity"

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It is a reasonably good description from theoretical perspectives on the topic of 'creativity'. However, the article is written in a heavily 'descriptive' manner. The main issue is, what is the contribution of the article? What is the main takeaway from all those theories that are presented in each section of the manuscript? It is suggested to have a bit of explanation and consolidation of those theories that are discussed to demonstrate the contribution of the article.
