After reading the article, I was thoroughly intrigued by the way it was structured and how the ideas were presented. While the overall flow of the article was good, there were some comments within the text that could benefit from further clarification.

- Could you kindly elaborate on the methodology used to determine a sample size of 450, and shed some light on how the study population was considered in the process?
- Justify based on context or specific university features. Why only select SI, PEOU, and PU?
