

Review of: "Signatures in mediumnic automatic writing - a pilot exploration of the resemblance with the deceased's handwriting"

Chris Nunn¹

¹ Royal College of Psychiatrists

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Version 2 represents a significant improvement over version 1 which I reviewed earlier. This seems to me a valuable study, well worth publication, as it draws attention to a mediumistic activity which is potentially accessible to further enquiry and, in principle, to empirical verification. As the authors acknowledge, it is still very much in the 'plant collecting' category of scientific endeavour but the authors have identified a potentially valuable 'bloom' and have described it well.