Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The information is valuable to updating the natural reclamation process, which may need management approach from the authority to adapt and mitigate the future risk from the perspective of ecological and social aspects.

Later on, this paper can be enriched by detailing the measurement methods of the natural reclamation and add several references from the similar previous study.

Several revisions may need consistencies for example for citation or references (see Canilao 2020) or (Canilao 2023), then please add more references to give more perspective of this paper.

Last, every location at the study site may have very unique condition and may need difference approaches to manage, therefore add the information as part of the result and discussion.

Wish you all the best
