The title reflects the content of the manuscripts adequately. The aim of the study has been stated clearly. The methods used to answer the research question are appropriate to address the problems and achieve the aim of the study. The results have been described clearly. The discussion elaborated on the results found in this study adequately. However, the conclusion is more likely a resume. The conclusion could be more brief by highlighting the most important or significant results. The author also states the limitations of the study and further studies that can be conducted. Overall, this is a good manuscript.
