The title of the paper is quite nice; however, the paper strongly needs to be polished. Both the literature and introduction are highlighting barriers that women faced. I suggest the literature must be a little diverse, and more should be added to this section. The results section strongly needs to be a little explanatory and comprehensive. The author must suggest measures for "Breaking the Barriers" — what measures can be adopted to reduce or remove the barriers? (As the title is reflecting the removal of barriers, while the paper includes only their existence.) The paper must include women's access to financial services. It should also include the available financial facilities.
