

Review of: "Economics of Cattle Fattening - A Case of Bangladesh"

Arshad Bhat¹

¹ Sher-E-Kashmir University of Agricultural Sciences and Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Review comments

The authors deserve appreciation for conducting such a wonderful piece of research. The authors have done justice to the research study by efficiently drawing results and then elaborating the findings and results in a nice manner. The methodology used is up to the mark; but few suggestions have been pointed out for making the study a great contribution in this field. The suggestions are enumerated below.

Abstract: Is too large and seems a detailed not, the abstract should be concise and concrete

Key words: Keywords are only four, should be at least six.

Introduction: Seems quite good but the references used are too old, only one recent reference is included, recent references should be included and those are too scientific and standard ones.

Review of literature: also new studies should be included in this section to make the study a contemporary one.

Methodology: Methodology used is good enough

Results and discussions: this section is nicely corroborated, and discussions are upto the mark.

Conclusions: Nicely concluded the research findings