

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Environmental Transmission Electron Microscope

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Environmental Transmission Electron Microscope. NCI Thesaurus. Code C78860.

A transmission electron microscope that is designed to allow the scientist to both introduce various gases into and change the temperature of the specimen environment. Reactions of the sample with its environment can then be directly recorded.