I appreciate and congratulate the authors for researching in the area which is much needed to be explored and reported at the public forum. I am satisfied with the research work of the authors as the research questions are well addressed by the findings at the end. The research methodology and presentation of the findings seems good to me. However, I have a few suggestions that if possible may please be incorporated, or otherwise may be ignored.

- The inclusion criteria of selecting these 32 Government hospitals may please be added to the research methodology section. The readers would have a clear picture of why only these govt. hospitals were approached in the study and why not others (rationalize pls).
- The Discussion section if may please be enriched further with few of the Indian studies that reflects on the status of accessibility to medical support or other dimensions like education, employment etc. to the persons with disabilities in other parts of India, or also in global context is possible.
- The paper is nicely developed however at the end I felt as if some specific suggestions and recommendations to different stakeholders could have been made. This would make the research work significant to the concerned people and other departments associated with persons with disabilities.
 - All the best for your future research work.
