The study was a very interesting affair, but the following points are made for the researcher's information:

1. the abstract did not strictly follow the structured summary format of aims, methods, results and conclusions. Also, the research hypothesis in the abstract is unnecessarily presented.
2. The introduction is too lengthy and does not introduce the research questions and corresponding research hypotheses in a reasonable and appropriate manner. It is recommended that this section be reduced where appropriate and that the final paragraph of this section address the research question, the hypothesis and the value of the research.
3. The methods section needs to introduce the appropriate research instruments, such as questionnaires, scales, etc.; it also does not describe the statistical methods used in the study. It is suggested that the introduction of variables and statistical methods in the results be moved here.
4. Strangely, we do not see any results of the study, including demographic information, regression analysis results, these key findings are missing.
